Along with our commitment to competitiveness and performance, we will continue to be led by our values to achieve sustainable success. This Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (“this Code”) helps to ensure compliance with legal requirements and standards of business conduct. The Board of Directors of the Company (“the Board”) had initially approved the Code of Conduct at their meeting held on August 31, 2007, for all members of the Board (“Directors”) and senior management personnel viz., all members of management one level below executive Directors, including all functional heads (“Officers”).

This Code reflects the business practice and principles of behaviour that support this commitment. The Board is responsible for setting the standards of conduct contained in this Code and for updating these standards as appropriate to reflect legal and regulatory developments. This Code is intended to provide guidance and help in recognizing and dealing with ethical issues and to help foster a culture of honesty and accountability. The Company has designated Mr. M. L. Bansal, Company Secretary as its Compliance Officer to administer this Code. Directors and Officers, at their discretion, may make any report or complaint provided for in this Code to the Chairman of the Board of the Company or to the Compliance Officer. The Compliance Officer will refer the complaints to the Chairman of the Board.

COMPLIANCE WITH APPLICABLE LAWS

In the discharge of their duties and responsibilities, Directors and Officers must comply with all applicable laws, rules and regulations. These would include provisions of the Companies Act, securities laws, insider trading laws, and the Company’s insider trading compliance policies.

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

Directors and Officers must avoid situations which could lead to a conflict of interest situation. A Director or Officer who is in possession of (i) any material inside information that the Company has not disclosed to the public, or (ii) any inside or unpublished material information about any suppliers and customers of, or any company which does business with, the Company, may not purchase or sell any of the securities of the Company.

Subject to the above, Directors and Officers should be free to make personal investments and enjoy social relations and normal business courtesies. However, they must not have any interests that adversely influence the performance of their duties, functions and responsibilities as Directors or Officers of the Company. A conflict of interest can arise when a Director or Officer or a member of his immediate family receives improper personal benefits as a result of his or her position as a Director or Officer of the Company. A conflict situation can also arise when a Director or Officer takes an action or has an interest that may make it difficult for him or her to perform his or her duties, functions and responsibilities objectively and effectively.

While this Code does not attempt, and indeed it would not be possible, to describe all conceivable conflicts of interest that could develop, the following are some examples of situations which may constitute conflicts of interest as may be applicable:

- Working, in any capacity, for a competitor, customer, supplier or other third party while employed by the Company.
- Being involved in any outside activity of any type which is so substantial as to call into question the ability of the Director or Officer to devote appropriate time and attention to his responsibilities of the Company.
- Acquiring any ownership interest (other than a nominal amount of stock in publicly traded companies) in any supplier, customer or competitor of the Company.
- Accepting any directorship on the board of directors of any supplier, customer or competitor of the Company, unless such directorship has been prior approved by the Board.
- Competing with the Company for the purchase or sale of property, products, services or other interests.
- Directing business to a supplier owned or managed by, or which employs, a relative or friend.
- Receiving loans or guarantees of obligations as a result of one's position as a Director.
- Accepting bribes, kickbacks or any other improper payments for services relating to the conduct of the business of the Company.
- Accepting, or having a member of a Director's family accept, a gift from persons or entities that deal with the Company, where the gift is being made in order to influence the Director's actions as a member of the Board, or where acceptance of a gift could otherwise reasonably create the appearance of a conflict of interest.

Any question about a Director's or Officer's actual or potential conflict of interest with the Company should be brought promptly to the attention of the Chairman of the Board, who will review the question and determine a proper course of action, including whether consideration or action by the Board is necessary. Directors and Officers involved in any conflict or potential conflict situations shall excuse themselves from any discussion or decision relating thereto.

Whenever feasible, Directors and Officers should consult the Chairman of the Board or the Compliance Officer if they believe they have a legal obligation to disclose confidential information.

The Company has formulated a Code of Conduct for Prevention of Insider Trading and Code of Corporate Disclosure Practices. The Directors and the Management personnel covered under the said Insider Trading code shall comply with the requirements of the said code. If a person possesses material non-public information concerning the Company that issues publicly-traded securities, it is generally illegal for the person to trade in securities of that company or to “tip” others who might trade in such securities.

Directors and Personnel covered by the said Insider Trading code, all other employees covered under this Code and third parties who are in a confidential relationship with the Company (as well as such individuals’ household members and close relatives) (“Covered Persons”), shall not trade in or recommend the purchase or sale of Company’s Securities while they are in possession of material information regarding the operations or prospects of Company that have not been publicly disclosed and disseminated. Covered Persons shall also similarly abstain from trading in, or recommending the purchase or sale of the securities of any other company that issues publicly-traded securities of which they have obtained material non-public information as a result of their employment by or affiliation with the Company.
